

Todd C. Cox

Business Principal

- Todd is President of The Lattitude Group's Chicago Office. The Lattitude Group is a business strategy and development firm that is dedicated to helping business leaders get results.

Business Leader

- Prior to joining The Lattitude Group, Todd spent 30 years between the textile and building materials industries, where he has earned a reputation as a dynamic, strategic, and consensus-building leader. During his career, Todd has held leadership positions in sales and business development arenas spanning family-owned businesses, and Fortune-500 companies.
- In several of these leadership positions, Todd was tasked with difficult turnaround projects encompassing manufacturing, operations, marketing, and sales teams. Through Todd's collaborative and strategic leadership, each of these undertakings resulted in positive contributions to the companies' overall profits.
- His strengths include strategic planning, sales and operational planning, conflict resolution, sales management, sales mentoring and coaching, collaborative teamwork creation, and market analysis studies.

The Lattitude Group specializes in driving growth, building value and exit/succession planning for business owners.

Since 2002, The Lattitude Group has delivered concrete, measurable results for more than 300 clients in numerous industries throughout the U.S. and Canada.

Personal

- Todd holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Textile Chemistry from Philadelphia University. He has completed the Leadership Development Program at the Center for Creative Leadership.
- Todd's commitment to community continues through his work with STEM Education events throughout Chicago.
- Todd currently resides in Chicago with his wife, Dr. Cherie Burke.